ALBUQUERQUE WILL SEND CROWD TO SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Attendance at Annual Gathering in Roswell Next Week Promises to Be Large From This Side of the State.

DELEGATES LEAVE WEEK FROM TODAY

Strong Three-day Program for Meeting of Sunday School Workers of New Mexico Now Completed.

Not content with sending its delegation of state fair visitors to the Roswell Products exposition, Albuquerque is lining up another substantial party for a journey to the Pecos valley city next week, when the annual convention of the State Sunday School association meets in Roswell.

Rev. Archie Toothaker, Rev. J. H. Beard, H. S. Lithgow and others are actively engaged now in lining up the delegation, which expects to leave this city with other delegates from the west side of the state next Thursday evening.

A strong program has been arranged for the Sunday school meeting. After being opened Friday morning at 9 o'clock with prayer by Rev. J. H. Beard of this city, the first day will be devoted to departmental sessions. Saturday includes a business session, departmental sessions, general session and banquet in the evening, while the Sunday sessions will be largely of a devotional nature. The present officers of the association are:

President, Judge W. H. Pope; Santa Fe, secretary, H. S. Lithgow, Albuquerque; treasurer, Frank C. Keeler, Albuquerque.

Division superintendents: Elementary, Mrs. W. O. Oldham, Portales; secondary, Mrs. Charles Hewitt, Albuquerque; adult, Mrs. Lillian E. McNamee, Artesia.

The departmental superintendents: Teacher training, Dr. J. W. Tindler, Roswell; Homes, Rev. J. M. Gardner, Artesia; misericordia, Rev. K. K. Campbell, Las Cruces; Temperance, J. S. Vossell, Deming; blind work, Mrs. L. E. Fletcher, Albuquerque; Spanish, Rev. Thomas M. Herwood, Albuquerque.

General secretary, Rev. Edward P. Rafferty, Phoenix, Ariz.

RAYADO COMPANY TO SPEND BIG AMOUNT

Fifty Thousand Dollars to Go Into Colfax County Reservoir, Says Manager of Chicago Land Syndicate.

Hatton, N. M., Sept. 22.—J. D. Hagedorn, formerly of the Hagedorn Investment company and now general manager for the Rayado Colonization company, owned and operated by a large Chicago syndicate, was a visitor in Roswell this week on business, on the way to his home on the Rayado near Concho. Mr. Hagedorn reports that the new syndicate is preparing to make extensive improvements on its 10,000-acre tract during the fall and winter, which will include the expenditure of about $50,000 on the construction of a second large reservoir. Mr. Hagedorn has located his ranches on the tract who are now raising good crops this fall. Fall wheat raised on the new soil has run as high as fifty bushels, with other grain and forage crops making corresponding yields.

The new plan for the colonization of the Rayado lands requires no payment down. One-half of the crop raised every year goes to the company until half of the contract price is satisfied, the remainder being paid on easy installments. The company expects to interest large numbers of homeseekers during the coming year in the Rayado lands, which are among the most productive to be found in the county and accessible to an abundant water supply.

THE COUNTIES ARE COMING WITH SPLENDID SHOWINGS FOR STATE EXHIBIT HALLS

Northern New Mexico Reports Today Show Colfax and San Miguel Preparing for Most Elaborate Displays They Have Ever Attempted While Whole Pecos Valley Has Its Preparations Made to Go After Big Prize Money.

That the counties of New Mexico are coming to the state fair with the most elaborate exhibits ever undertaken by any of them, is made plain by every report that reaches Albuquerque and the fair offices. The Herald today received a report from J. F. Jarrell, Santa Fe publicity agent, in which Mr. Jarrell points out that the plans were worked out by Colfax and San Miguel counties mean little expositions in themselves. Word comes also that Mori county is preparing a splendid display, while in Taos county the chairman of the county commission and the county clerk have taken personal charge of the exhibit work. The Pecos valley city next week, when the annual convention of the State Sunday School association meets in Roswell, Rev. Archie Toothaker, Rev. J. H. Beard, H. S. Rayado Company to Spend Big Amount Enthusiastic Reception Ready for Albuquerque Delegation at the Pecos Valley Products Exposition.

ALBUQUERQUE PARTY IS STEADILY GROWING

Roswell, N. M., Sept. 22.—The committees working on the special train load of Roswell people for the state fair at Albuquerque have been meeting with great encouragement, and nothing has helped them more than the word received here today that Albuquerque was planning to bring over a train load of people for the state live stock and products exposition during the week of October 4-9. It is practically assured that Roswell will send to Albuquerque the largest crowd which has ever left the city to attend any function.

The Eddy county fair at Artesia, September 29 to October 1, has the piano nearly completed. Many entries of livestock, farm, orchard and garden products are already entered. The amusement features will be attractive to young and old.

In Chaves county Dexter will hold a fair for two days, September 29 and October 1. This prosperous community has plenty of things to show and there are many entries already made.

The best show at Artesia and Dexter will go to the State Livestock and Products exposition at Roswell from October 4th to the 9th. The management has been busy lining up every feature that will interest the people. There are already over ninety head of registered dairy cattle entered of the Holsteins, others, Jerseys and Guernseys. Beef breeds of cattle, horses, swine and poultry will be shown in number. It looks now as if this will be the best show of stock ever held in New Mexico and neighboring states.

The best of the products which are shown in Chaves county farmers will be included in the exhibit at the state fair at Albuquerque, and Chaves county people already speak of the great prize of $1,000 "which we will win at Albuquerque."

ALBUQUERQUE DELEGATION IS GROWING STEADILY

With two committees steadily pouring away, and two parties being organized, one for the journey by train and the other by automobile, Albuquerque's delegation of visitors to the Roswell products exposition is growing rapidly in number. The train committee will continue its work right up to the time the train starts, while F. B. Schenck is making progress with his automobile caravan. Several cars are signed up now and as each car will carry its full quota of delegates the number who will go in this way is quite large. President David H. Boyd of the state university was among those who joined the train party yesterday.

LEADING BUSINESS MEN OF LAS VEGAS JOIN TAX LEAGUE IN A BODY

Thirty-two Apply for Membership in Taxpayers' Association as Result of Meeting Where Work Is Explained.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO SECURE MORE MEMBERS

President Hagerman From Roswell Reports Long List of New Members; Many Albuquerque Men Join.

Amano Chavez of the state tax commission, who returned from a meeting of the commission in Santa Fe, expressed today strong endorsement of the aims and objects of the newly organized State Taxpayers' league.

"That organization," said Mr.

Chavez with emphasis, "is going to be the greatest thing that this state has ever had. The taxpayers will protect their own interests most effectively, and in doing it they will work for the best general interest of the state.

They will make themselves heard and be heard by the legislature."

Success from the standpoint of membership and popular support for the Taxpayers' association of New Mexico, organized in Santa Fe on the first of September, is noted by a flood of membership applications reaching the organization office in this city from all sections of the state. President H. J. Hagerman, who is at his home in Roswell to remain until the opening of the state fair today sent to the organization a list of the leading business concerns and individuals of Roswell who have joined the association, supplementing an even larger list of those who had made application direct from the Pecos valley city. In Santa Fe Judge R. H. Hanna, the county's member of the general council, H. M. Cutting of the executive committee, Frank Owen, the speaker showed that large corporations, like the railroads, who may join, while they will pay a large amount of dues, will have but one vote, the same as the man who pays $1.50 per year. As the expense of maintaining the league's work will be about $12,000 per year, Mr. Spies emphasized the necessity for securing a large membership.

In this city a long list of business men, taxpayers, large and small, have sent in their applications, and from every county in the state the applications, distributed first a week ago, are coming in in constantly increasing numbers.

In Las Vegas State Senator John S. Clark, a member of the executive committee; Fidel Ortiz, member of the general council; Fred O. Blood, Dr. J. M. Cunningham and others took a public meeting of business men as a means to encourage individual taxpayers to join the association. This meeting was held on Tuesday night in the Las Vegas Commercial club and was attended by thirty-two of the leading business men of Las Vegas, all of whom applied for membership. In addition a strong committee was named to carry on the membership work in San Miguel county. The Las Vegas Optic of yesterday says of the meeting there, in part:

The Las Vegas Meeting.

As a result of an enthusiastic meeting in the rooms of the Commercial club last evening the New Mexico Taxpayers' League gained a large number of members and the complete endorsement of the leading business men and taxpayers of Las Vegas. A committee consisting of Dr. J. M. Cunningham, Jefferson Reynolds, and Charles Ulfeld was named for the purpose of securing the signatures of several hundred San Miguel county residents to membership application blanks.

There were thirty-five men present at the meeting, and nearly all of them agreed to join the league.

The meeting was opened by Fred O. Blood, president of the Commercial club. Mr. Blood announced that Charles A. Spies would explain the aims and objectives of the state taxpayers' league.

Mr. Spies, in an interesting summary of financial conditions in this state explained that New Mexico's running expenses had practically doubled since statehood was granted.

He suggested that a survey of the various counties is badly needed.

Dr. Cunningham said the merchants and livestock owners must be compelled to pay taxation on all their property, as well as the man who owns land.

He suggested, however, that the dry farmers should be dealt with leniently, their land not being assessed at purchase price until they have worked out the peculiar problems which they are facing and demonstrated that dry farming is a complete success.

Mr. Ward said that direct taxation in 1914 brought $4,999,699. This does not include land revenues, fees of state and county officers, insurance taxes, licenses and other sources of revenue.

"Get Everybody!"—Dr. Cunningham.

Charles Greenley spoke in favor of the league, as did Dr. J. M. Cunningham. Dr. Cunningham said something must be done for getting all the property in the state on the tax rolls. He suggested that a survey of the various counties is badly needed.

He suggested, however, that the dry farmers should be dealt with leniently, their land not being assessed at purchase price until they have worked out the peculiar problems which they are facing and demonstrated that dry farming is a complete success.

Pidel Ortiz, chairman of the board of county commissioners, also spoke in favor of the league. He said the commissioners were always ready to receive the advice of taxpayers regarding affairs in the county.

Jefferson Reynolds spoke of the representative character of the men who met in Santa Fe on September 1 to form the taxpayers' league. He favored the organization and its objectives.

Will Employ Expert.

Mr. Spies declared that the league expects to employ an expert, who will make a complete study of conditions in the state, both as to assessments and public expenditures.

He said the annual dues for each member are three-fourths of one percent of the amount of taxes paid by him. The minimum fee is $1.50 per year. The speaker showed that large corporations, like the railroads, who may join, while they will pay a large amount of dues, will have but one vote, the same as the man who pays $1.50 per year. As the expense of maintaining the league's work will be about $12,000 per year, Mr. Spies emphasized the necessity for securing a large membership.

Secretary LeNoir of the Commercial club, at the request of Mr. Spies, read the by-laws of the New Mexico Taxpayers' league.

Clark Explains League.

State Senator John S. Clark spoke in favor of the taxpayers' league, saying it was a necessity. He said that President Robert Adams of the national taxpayers' league has recommended four men, any one of whom is capable of filling the position of expert taxation examiner for New Mexico. Mr. Clark, who is an official of the New Mexico Taxpayers' league, said that one of these men practically has agreed to undertake the work at a salary regarded as quite reasonable.

Mr. Clark said the object of the league is to work changes in the present assessment immediately, but to acquire expert information regarding taxation in the state that will make intelligent and beneficial legislation possible later on.

With all the facts at hand, Mr. Clark said he believed taxation and assessment laws that would be equitable and would fill all the needs of the state would be passed.

Mr. Clark said that direct taxation in 1914 brought $4,999,699. This does not include land revenues, fees of state and county officers, insurance taxes, licenses and other sources of revenue.

"Get Everybody!"—Dr. Cunningham.

STATE HIGHWAY BOARD LEVIES FULL TAX

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 23.—It is announced today that the state highway commission has adopted a resolution laying the full amount of one-third of one mill, permitted under the Bursum tax law, for road purposes. This means that the commission has levied to its limit, or one-ninth of the total three-mill levy permitted under the Bursum law for state purposes. Herefore the maximum levy for road purposes has been one mill, which was the state road levy last year. The maximum was reduced to one-third of one mill under the Bursum act and it had been hoped by those who were fighting against deficit in state revenues that the highway commission might not make the full limit in its levy.

The commission, however, could not see its way to getting along with a smaller levy. The question as to whether or not this highway levy is or is not included in the three-mill maximum total for state purposes is still undetermined. If it is found to be a part of the maximum three-mill levy, the state deficit may be materially increased. If it is outside that levy the financial situation of the state government will be improved by the levy.
